The great loss of property especially of bedding and clothing, "humanly reported" is now covered & placed "But for the rain (November 16") of his Hospital (by order) to a place of safety 80 miles distant on the thousand captives of this date by the army.
This property return would have been ample testimony to the diligence and care bestowed on the proper preservation of our public property.

On the approach of the Enemy this Hospital was crowded with over 500 patients, all of whom were quickly transferred, in this a very short time, and the order to fire, & be ready for service to be a war was with the midnight pressure. The transportation was inadequate and badly managed, more than fifty patients were so much disabled that they were transported to other Hospitals, many on stretchers, and not without their bedding, after further exertions but even this of the bedding was but far from all that was required.

Even if the property was so small & stolen but much else large better to have had some of the property, & more off to them; and though still in the Service of the Confederate States Government, though lost to this Hospital.

It is hoped that the uniformity across a point will serve to render the laws, which have been sustained.

This image shows a vertical strip of aged, yellowed paper, possibly a book cover or endpaper. The paper has a textured, slightly mottled appearance with various shades of yellow and brown. There are faint, dark markings and smudges scattered across the surface, particularly towards the right edge. The strip is oriented vertically, with the top at the bottom of the image and the bottom at the top. The overall appearance is that of an old, worn piece of paper.
